Enrolment into B811 and B814 as part of F93 MSc in Human Resource Management

Dear Mr Heatley,

My name is Alfred Anate Mayaki, an Open University postgraduate student enrolled into the MSc in Human Resource Management. My pass marks for the first two modules I have taken: B810 (core) and B812 (core) have now been confirmed. I wanted to thank Student Support for your help thus far and everyone at The Open University for upholding my result following an EMA resit I had to submit to progress.

As of this morning, although I have begun an Open Learn short course entitled Introducing Black Leadership, accredited by the CPD Standards Office, I am simultaneously seeking academic advice on the best pathway to pursue with a view to completing the MSc programme in November 2026. There is one core module and one optional module I am aiming to enrol into: B811 (core) and B814 (optional), each of which are 30 credits, making a total of 60 credits. This pathway, once completed, will satisfy the criteria required to meet an important module requisite condition for B894, which begins in November 2025 and is also 60 credits.

If you have time in your schedule before Friday, please kindly reach out to me via e-mail or on my mobile number to discuss the possibility of the above module structure being pursued on my MSc in the forthcoming months. I am very much appreciative of your assistance and thankful for your input thus far and look forward to hearing from Student Support sometime this week.

Sincerely,

Alfred Anate Mayaki (Student)
