Journal Submission Letter – Follow Up

Dear Devon,

I hope your week is going well.

If you recall, we connected after I sent you a letter outlining an independent (non-affiliated) publication interest I had and still have to this day. Much of the 1st letter I wrote was about process and motivation for submitting a journal article. Since then, I have been awaiting a response to my letter from yourself or someone responsible for correspondence at University of Chicago Press, but I am yet to receive one.

Upon monitoring the new releases from my journal in question, I have noticed that my editorial submission has been overlooked, for not one but two successive months.

Is there a date you have in mind for publication of my submission?

Kind regards

Alfred Anate Mayaki (Student)
